

Songs You Asked For — Thank You Again Hi James, Thank you again for saying yes. That simple gesture carries a lot of weight for me. I've linked the three songs I feel most ready to share right now. These recordings were made with limited equipment and entirely self-produced — just me and the music. They're not full productions yet, but I wanted you to hear the songs honestly, as they were written. ■ Flicker – About holding onto your light when everything tries to dim it ■ Comfortable – A soft meditation on grief showing up in everyday stillness ■ Final Words? – A quiet look back at a love that couldn't be mended I know each of these songs will evolve with the right collaborators, but I hope what's here already speaks for itself. If any of them connect, I'd be honored to talk more. With real gratitude, Cody P.S. If you'd prefer lyric sheets, stems, or a different format, I'm happy to send those too.